

Moreover, large cohesive masses of cells were observed microscopically in 4 kinds of alanine free media, both with S.epidermidis and S.capitis. This data suggests that alanine plays an important role in the growth of CNS.

Short Report

Study of Accidents that Occur When Caring for Physically Handcapped People Koji TODA

No abstract

Materials

Menstrual Problems of Female High School Students — Their Perceptions about Menstruation — Yuuko TAKEI

No abstract

A report on the Maternal and Child Health Service in Ghana — Western Region, Volta Region and Brong-Ahafo Region — Emiko SUZUI

No abstract