3.2. Abstract

An abstract or summary must be submitted on a separate page. It should be written in one paragraph without "Introduction", "Method" etc. within the prescribed restriction.

3.3. Body

The authors should be aware of the wide range of readers who are interested in the medical welfare field and other fields of relevance. The manuscript should be written as a plain, exact, and clear text. It is required to be a fully logical scientific paper. If the author's native language is not English, the paper should be checked by a native English professional before submission.

For examples, check the articles in the latest back number of this journal.

3.4. Reference style

Authors must follow the following rules of reference style.

3.4.1 In-text citation

Numerals for referential notification in the body should be in upper case in half parentheses (Ex.³⁾).

3.4.2 Reference list

References should be cited in sequence with the text. The following examples demonstrate correct style:

A citation should be listed as "In press" only if it has received final acceptance from a journal or book editor. "Personal communication" and "unpublished results (or data)" should not be cited. Finally, all authors should be listed in the references; "et al." is unacceptable.

3.5. Tables and figures

Tables should be typed double-spaced on separate sheets, numbered in Arabic numerals, and should have a brief descriptive title. No vertical lines should be used in tables.

Figures should be submitted as sharp, well-contrasted glossy prints. The publisher will reduce them to fit the page. Drawings intended for illustration should be numbered and titled. On the back of each photograph intended for illustration, the top (using ↑), and its figure number should be written in pencil. Color printing requires special arrangements with the publisher. Each figure should be on a separate page.

3.6. Legends

Legends and the list of the titles of all tables and figures should be typed on a separate sheet and numbered consecutively. Legends should be brief, and they must not represent a duplication of information provided previously in the text.

4. Submission

The original and one copy of the manuscript should be submitted. All manuscripts submitted for publication should be addressed to:
